Police Officer Quaid.

Thursday was another quiet night in Kingston, and the police did not find it necessary to make any arrests.

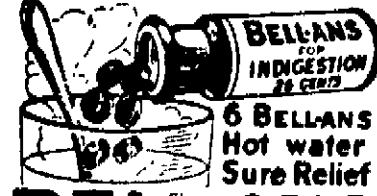

The prizes so far donated by the people of the city and county are on exhibition in the windows of S. J. Bennett's drug store on Will street and are attracting considerable attention. There will undoubtedly be many other prizes donated.

Corns Come Off Like Banana Peel

"Gels-It" Leaves Toe Smooth As Your Palm. Never Fails.
Ever peel off a banana skin? Well, that's the way "Gels-It" peels off any corn or callus. It's a pleasure.
Nothing else in the world will do it.

"2 Drops of 'Gels-It' Good-bye Corns!"
but "Gels-It" because of the new accret principle in the "Gels-It" formula. "Gels-It" does away forever with "contraptions," "wraps," plasters, ointments that rub off, bloodletting knives, and scissors that snip into the "quick." "Gels-It" eases pain. It takes but a second or two to use "Gels-It." There's no fussing or trouble. It dries immediately. You put your stocking right back on again. Your corn will come off painlessly in one complete piece.
That's common-sense. It never fails.
"Gels-It," the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Sold by Almost an Unknown Race.

In the extreme north of the Russian province of Archangel dwells one of the queerest and least known races of mankind. These are the Samoyedes, the wandering tribes of the vast frozen marshes which extend in these regions from the forest belt to the shores of the Arctic ocean, an exchange says. They worship idols and their sole wealth consists in reindeer. Living the reindeer draws the sledges, which transports the Samoyede and his belongings from spot to spot in search of the game fish which constitute his principal sustenance. Dead, it provides him with meat in times of scarcity, and with skin for his family tent. With its sharpened bones he tips his wooden fishing harpoons and hunting spears. Its sinews he uses to sew together the shirt, breeches and boots of sealskin which are the attire alike of the Samoyede men, women and children.

To Preserve China.

Many a lover of the china has been heartbroken to discover her choice dinner or tea set lined with hairlike cracks. Hot tea or chocolate poured into dainty cups cracks them instantly. A Chinese merchant gave this bit of information when a rare tea set was purchased from him. "Before using delicate china place it in a pan of cold water. Let it come gradually to the boil and allow the china to remain in the water till cold." This tempering the china, and it is capable of withstanding the sudden expansion caused by the heat. There is no need of repeating the treatment for a long time.

Flower Show Old Institution.

The flower show of English villages have an ancient origin. Though few people may ever stop to give the matter a thought. The ancestry of the floral fest reaches back to the days of Old, the past. As for when flower shows were first held in England, it cannot be certainly known, but it is a fact that if they did not actually introduce them. The worsted manufacturers from Flanders, seeing the worth of Flax and Alva, in 1567, gave a ship to the practice. To these people English garden of Elizabeth's flower show such favorites as the gilly-flower and the carnation.

BIBLES THAT ARE PRICELESS

Four Copies of Sacred Book Reported as Treasures by Their Fortunate Owners.

The largest Bible in existence is in the royal library at Stockholm. The covers are made of solid planks, four inches thick, and the pages measure a yard in length. It is estimated that 100,000 sheets must have been used to furnish the 100 parchment leaves of this colossal book. It is considered priceless.

A well-known New Yorker is the proud possessor of a manuscript Bible written by his only son, a cripple. He could only work about two hours a day, so he took over two years to complete his task. It does not contain a single error or slip, for if error or slip occurred the youth discarded the whole page. The covers and binding are all in red ink, and the whole is beautifully written.

WHERE BEDS ARE UNKNOWN

Residents of Florida, Yucatan, Enjoy Repose in Hammocks Which May Be Found Anywhere.

In Florida, Yucatan, the majority of the people do not use beds, in fact very few of them have even seen one. They sleep in hammocks, which are swung across the rooms at night and with no fuss or fussing; the person just goes to bed and is gently rocked to sleep by any passing breeze. The climate is so hot that it is only during the months of January and February that a light sheet may be required as covering.

These hammocks are usually made by the mother of the family, writes Lily del. Osborn, in St. Nicholas, and consist of thread, more or less fine, woven together on great frames with a kind of shuttle or needle. Some of the designs are wonderfully intricate and the colors beautifully blended. I saw one very large one, made in the colors of the United States flag, which was to be sent up to the United States for a gift. It was certainly a work of art, made of the very finest woven thread; and yet the hammock could easily support a weight of 300 pounds. A hammock always brings him or her own hammock, which is very convenient.

Quite Really Ancient Game. The quest is a British game of truth, used in playing. It is generally from eight to a half to nine and a half inches in external diameter, and between one and two inches in breadth, convex on the upper side and slightly concave on the under side, so that the outer edge curves downward, and is sharp enough to cut into soft ground. The game played with such flags requires two pins, called books, driven part of their length into the ground some distance apart; and the players, who are divided into two sides, stand beside one book, and in regular succession throw their quills, of which each player has two, as near the other book as they can. The side which has the quill nearest the book counts a point toward the game, or, if the quill is thrown so as to surround the book, it counts two. The game slightly resembles the ancient exercise of throwing the discs, which has, however, been often translated by this English word.

First Wheat Grown in Canada. The first wheat that ripened in Canadian sunshine was grown in 1607 at Port Royal, now Annapolis Basin, Nova Scotia. Here Champlain and others founded a post and built a fort.

The Flying Tide. No one, however great his genius or high his position, is all-important to the world: his work will go on without him. There may be sighs and disturbances in the current for a time when he sinks out of sight, but the tide will soon be flowing on as before. This truth may be painful to personal vanity, but it is comforting to every generous soul that cares more for others than for self.

They were joined by Marc Lescarbot, a lawyer of Paris, a poet, and the earliest writer of Canadian history. Love of adventure drew him to Port Royal. Outside the pallidness of the fort he cultivated a plot of land in part of which he sowed wheat, brought, of course, from France. His sowing was fall or winter wheat. It grew well, ripened perfectly, and with sticks Lescarbot and his associates cut the crop. That was the first wheat-crop harvested on land now within the Dominion of Canada.

It would appear that the striking actors got what they wanted, for the tickets in New York have gone up to $2.50 and opera seats to $7.00.

Perhaps the reference for "Jazz" has called to mind the story that Grant said he knew only two tunes—one was "Hail to the Chief" and the other wasn't.

After all the talk about the alarming exodus of foreign-born residents comes the announcement that the exact number of those departing since the armistice is only 102,513, which is not above the normal rate.

According to Dr. Metcalf of the Harvard Observatory, a comet traveling at a great speed some 47,000,000 miles above the earth will be visible to the naked eye on October 15. Some comet, if it can be seen, "but distance."

The story comes of three American girls in war service in France who had together over 400 proposals of marriage from doughboy admirers. But as it was a case of three girls to some 300,000 boys, more or less, what else was to be expected?

Sir George Greyden Marks was correct enough when on landing in New York he said that by refusing to sign the treaty America was "holding up the peace of the world," but at this stage of affairs such a reminder from a member of the British Parliament is not likely to hasten ratification.

The prohibitionists have a bigger fight ahead of them in England than they had in this country. One reason for this is that eminent churchmen stand boldly in their path. The Bishop of Hereford, for example, recently declared: "Prohibition is a throw back to the discredited method of coercion. It violates civil self-respect. Its brutal simplicity insults reason and destroys liberty. It can breed in England what it has bred in America—arrogance, hypocrisy and discontent."

VICTOR IMMANUEL'S GIFT.

King Victor Emmanuel made himself enormously popular in Italy during the war by his democracy and his practical interest in the welfare of his soldiers and their families. He has now further endeared himself to his people by a formal relinquishment of all the crown properties held in his name throughout Italy "for the benefit of the peasantry and of those who fought for Italian unity." It is further announced that the king gives up his right of possession to the buildings on these crown lands "in favor of those institutions and charitable organizations whose distinct aim is to mitigate such sufferings of the people as arose out of the dire consequences of the war." The king had previously turned over to the nation for its use during the war no less than six of his palaces as homes for disabled soldiers.

The work thus so well begun is now completed by the grant to the nation of all crown lands, a gift described as one of the most remarkable ever made by a sovereign to his subjects. Victor Emmanuel's crown properties are less extensive and valuable than those so tenaciously held by the Hapsburgs and Romanoffs, yet are said to be more extensive than those now held by any other European monarch. The king of Italy thus sets a worthy example of self-sacrifice and devotion in his country's interests, an example which will be thoughtfully considered by other monarchs and heads of aristocratic families who still cling to institutions antagonistic to the modern spirit.

TRUSTING OR CARELESS?

In the opinion of the New York Sun those who regard the metropolis as "a city of cynical and suspicious people" ought to be somewhat disturbed by recent happenings. "Wall Street, by all reports, is a place where everybody looked out for himself," says the Sun, "and the case this past summer of the loss of $100,000 in Liberty bonds, which were kept in a safe at a brokerage house, has been a case of a broker will hand $100,000 worth of unregistered bonds to a lad of 18 whom he sorely knows and tell him to run over to Smith & Smith's with them. Isn't that perfect confidence on a big scale? A girl of 16 years tells the police that in the last year she has robbed 150 apartments by the simple method of trying doors and entering those which are not locked. If this does not testify to the supreme trust of New York householders in the honesty of their fellow citizens, what does it mean?

Obviously it means carelessness rather than trustfulness, a reckless willingness to take risks rather than go to the trouble of proper precaution. We must trust our fellow citizens in the right way and such trust is justified by the results. The world's business is based on trust, without which we should have to return to the business methods of barbarous ages. We must trust banks and bank clerks, for example, or forego the enormous convenience of paying our bills with checks instead of with cash. But imperative trust of this sort does not require the folly of leaving doors unlocked or handing packages of Liberty bonds to unknown messenger boys. Ninety-nine per cent of the people are law abiding, if for no other reason because it pays to be so, but we've got to be wary on account of the other one per cent.

Taxi and Motorcycle Collide.

Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock a taxicab of the Ten Broeck Taxi Company, driven by Harry Sills, and a motorcycle on which were riding Alouzo and James Clearwater of South Wilbur avenue, collided at Broadway and Foxhall avenue. The taxi was on the way up Broadway with a load of the Freemans for the West Shore train, and was running between 12 and 15 miles an hour. The motorcycle came out of Foxhall avenue, and struck the taxi on the left fender. Both Clearwaters were hurled off their machine. The taxi stopped and hurried the boys to the Kingston City Hospital where it was found that their injuries were not serious. They later were taken to their home after having their injuries attended to.

Legend of Origin of Flowers.

In Sussex, England, the city of the valley is said to be a memorial of the battle St. Leonard fought with a dragon. The holy man encountered the monster in the forest and battled with it for three days. At last the saint was victorious though wounded seriously, and wherever his blood dripped upon the ground there sprang up flowers of the valley in perfection. It is from the city of the valley is said to have sprung from the knight's tears.

CHIC LACE BLOUSE

Effective Garment Designed for Early Fall Wardrobe.

May Be of White or Colored Material, to Suit Skirt With Which It Is Worn.

The sketch shows a very smart little blouse of lace which will be found a valuable addition to the early fall wardrobe. It may be made of black, white or ivory-colored lace, or, if desired, a lace may be dyed to match the skirt with which the blouse is to be worn. Dyed laces have been very much favored during the last season or two. This blouse is finished at the waist with a narrow ribbon girde, and as originally designed the garment was made of ivory-colored chantilly lace. The girde was of inch and a half wide double-faced satin ribbon, green on one side, black on the other.

The woman who is economically inclined can usually supply herself with several smart and dressy skirts from the remains of sheer net, georgette or silk voile frocks, as the dress waist nearly always wears out first, and with several good-looking blouses at her disposal she can develop an afternoon frock for early fall with very little expenditure of time or money.

Paris designers are sending over some very smart separate skirts as models for the American trade, but before these reach the consumer there is little doubt that they will be greatly modified.

As a rule, the French-designed skirts are very short and tight, with elaborate over-drapings. A drapery that flares on one hip only is a favorite. The really dressy separate skirt will almost certainly be in great demand during the coming fall and winter, due to the fact that the elaborate over-blouse has finally been accepted by American fashion authorities and the public at large. Two-color combinations are frequently seen in the handsome skirts of satin and soft silks and two-faced fabrics are excellent selections, one side serving as a trimming for the other, or making the arrangement of the novel draperies easy.

SMALL GIRLS LIKE SMOCKS

Fashion Never Seems to Lose Its Popularity, With the Little Ones or Their Elders.

For little girls of six years and less dresses of the smock type are unquestionably favorites. One manufacturer given to figures has estimated that wash frocks, especially smock dresses, sell twenty to one of any other style. This may be exaggerating things a trifle, but the fact remains that the little, comfortable, straight-line smock frocks are liked by the children as well as by their elders, and each season witnesses the introduction of many little novelties that may still come under the "smock" heading.

Wash dresses are generally considered the best selection for little girls of six years and less regardless of season or weather. Houses and apartments are so well heated these days that children do not require to be warmly dressed when indoors, and when out of doors warm sweaters and wraps give the necessary protection, no matter how light the garments that are worn underneath.

Turbans of Gams.

Some of the new gauze turbans are enormous: so wide that they completely hide the hair, even at the sides. Some lovely ones of this order are being made of silver gauze embroidered in black and silver in fresh pink tulle. A startling turban seen the other day was made entirely of leaf-green tulle. The fragile material was wound round and round the head in a mysterious fashion. This was worn by a well-known actress.

Coming Fashions.

Short sleeves are unquestionably the vogue among smart women, for there are such in evidence where fashion-conscious. But conservative women seem to be still clinging to the wrist length sleeve in both dresses and blouses.

AT THE THEATRES.

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me" at Keeney's.

Most people have read Hall Caine's masterpiece, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," and those who have not probably will sooner or later. Either class will enjoy the remarkable presentation of this story upon the screen at Keeney's where it opened to a packed house and was received with acclaim yesterday and will be repeated again tonight. A cast of super excellence interprets the characters. Katherine MacDonald is Mary; Jack Holt is Lord Raa; Alma Lier is played by Fritz Brunette; Milton Sills does Conrad and Theodore Roberts is Daniel, the stern father of Mary. The settings and locations of the exterior scenes are alike realistic and beautiful. The picture covers India, Africa, England, Egypt and the Antarctic. Every scene is vividly portrayed. A very late Kinogram News Weekly and also an Educational travel picture will be included in the program for tonight. Tomorrow Mary Pickford in Captain Kidd, Jr. will be the attraction at Keeney's.

Jackie Saunders in "Muggsy" is the bill at the Auditorium tonight. They thought she was a boy because she wore boy's clothing. Her clothes don't make the man. So when "Muggsy" grew up she was forced to revert to the girlish gowns of winsome womanhood. Why? Well, because she fell in love. It almost cost her a fortune. But her youthful pranks had taught her to fight and she won out. Also a very amusing comedy and Gaumont News, are special added attractions for this evening. Tomorrow Monroe Salisbury in "The Sleeping Lion" will be presented.

The three vaudeville acts which changed yesterday pleased even more than those presented the first half of the week at the Orpheum. All performances were largely attended which goes to show that the patrons thoroughly enjoy the entertainments at the theatre. The picture today is June Elvidge in "Love and the Woman" also Heart's Latest News.

Flowers Foretell Rain.

The ordinary clover and all its varieties, including shamrock, are barometers. When rain is coming the leaves shut together like the petals of an eye. For a day or two before rain comes their stems swell to an appreciable extent, and stiffen so that the leaves are borne more uprightly than usual. This stem swelling when rain is expected is a feature of many flowering grasses.

Why Women Are More Reckless Than Men in Disregarding Traffic Regulations in Crossing a Street is Discussed and Reason Advanced.

"Why does a chicken cross the street?" asked the customer with a genial smile this morning as he entered the barber shop, and found the busy barber reading a poultry journal.

"Funny I suppose you think," retorted the barber, "but speaking of crossing the street, there are several street intersections in this city where it is dangerous to cross if you don't watch out."

"I believe you," replied the customer, "and while you are speaking of that have you ever noticed that a woman is more careless than a man in crossing a street?"

"I sure have," agreed the barber, "and it is a wonder to me that more of them are not injured."

"It's a queer thing," said the customer reflectively, "but actually it seems as though some woman wait until there is a traffic congestion before they try to cross. When the street is clear you see them standing on the sidewalk, but just as soon as several automobiles and wagons come in sight then they decide to cross."

"And another thing," interrupted the barber, "did you ever stop to realize that for the number of women driving automobiles they meet with less accidents than men driving?"

"I suppose that's so," said the customer, "but I can't say I ever noticed it."

"Well, it is so," replied the barber.

"What's the answer?" asked the customer.

"I may be wrong," replied the barber, "but it seems that when two automobiles are about to collide that if a man is driving one and a woman the other the man will run his car off the road to avoid hitting the woman's car."

"But, getting back to the original point under discussion," said the customer, "why is it that women are more reckless in crossing the street?"

"A woman's belief in man's chivalry seems to be the only answer to me," explained the barber. "For they seem to think that a man will be more thoughtful and on the watch so as to avoid hitting her."

"Well, chivalry is all right too," said the customer, "but one should not depend too much on it."

"You said it," commented the barber.

Oil the old harness.

Money in bank is one safe investment, another is green crops turned under.

Time and tide wait for no man, but time and care applied to farm tasks pay any man.

Legumes add nitrogen to soil, furnish good feed, and cost less to grow than many other crops.

Oil on the metal parts and paint on the wooden parts of farm machinery this fall will save lots of money.

Now is a good time to plan ways to keep farm help employed during the winter months. Maybe the woodlot and the sugar bush will help.

Spade or plow up the garden this fall; the general clean up and disturbance is bad for cut worms and other insects and so good for next year's garden.

Cut out the old raspberry canes and thin the new ones a bit. Have you the state college raspberry bulletin R. C. F. 362? A card to Ithaca, N. Y., will bring it to you.

What is said to be the world's largest cheese will go from Appleton, Wisconsin, to the national dairy show at Chicago. It weighs 31,964 pounds. The big cheese at New York's milk show last April weighed 6,500 pounds.

POULTRY METHODS AFFECTED BY WAR

Demands for Greater Efficiency to Meet Emergency Conditions Resulted in Important Discoveries.

War time demands for greater efficiency affected poultry raising, like everything else. As a result of the efforts to meet these emergency conditions, some important poultry discoveries were made which will be at the disposal of those who take the winter course in poultry husbandry to be given at Cornell University from November 5 to February 13, for the benefit of those who wish a short, practical course in poultry keeping. Tuition is free to residents of New York state.

The poultry department of the college says it is planning for one of the most thorough and practical short courses which it has ever offered. The course is adapted to the needs of those men and women who wish to develop a business of their own and also to the needs of those who wish to become managers of large, specialized poultry enterprises.

Some of the war time efficiency methods developed by the Cornell department and available to the men and women taking this year's short course are the use of artificial lights for increasing egg production, better methods of selecting the stock by their appearance for breeding purposes, economical housing for small flocks, more efficient feeding, avoiding diseases, and more practical methods of marketing.

A postal card addressed to the secretary of the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y., will bring full details about this course.

WINTERING THE BEES.

Insulation Should Be Attended to Late in September.

September is the month when bee men must begin to think about wintering their colonies. The bees may be wintered either by insulating in good packing cases having heavy packing on all sides or by placing them in the cellar.

For the packing case method the state college bee men at Ithaca, N. Y., advocate the use of cases holding four colonies. Each case should provide four inches of insulation on the bottom, eight inches on the sides and one foot on the top of the hives. This insulation should be given the latter part of September or the first half of October. Full details on making the packing cases and about outdoor wintering are found in Farmers' Bulletin 1912 issued by the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Cellar Wintering Hints.

Cellar wintering is strongly urged for middle and northern New York. The bees should be put in the cellar before they have lost part of their vitality by hard freezing, which means not later than the first half of November. The cellar used should always be below the frost line and the temperature are to be avoided. The bees "F" even in the coldest weather. Ideal temperatures are between 45 degrees F. and 52 degrees F. Sudden changes in temperature are to be avoided. The cellar must be dark; little ventilation is needed.

Leave Hive Entrances Open.
The summer entrances to the hives may usually be left open, and in no case should the bees be confined to the hives by screen, as is sometimes done. After putting the bees in the cellar they should be left absolutely without disturbance until spring. From the first of April to the middle of April is usually a good time to take bees out of the cellar.

A full discussion of the cellar wintering of bees is found in Farmers' Bulletin 1914 of the United States Department of Agriculture. Bee bulletins to be obtained from the state college at Ithaca, N. Y., are "How to Increase the Honey Supply," which is Extension Bulletin 18, and "Beekeeping in the Cellar," which is known as R. C. F. 138.

LINE HELIX SPRING CROPS.
Application Now More Effective Than Later in Fall.

Farmers of New York state are coming to realize the importance of using lime on their land. Some think, however, that lime can be applied only in the spring. As a matter of fact, where fall plowing is practiced the lime applied in the fall may be even more effective on the spring crops since it has a longer time in which to become active, say the soil fertility workers at the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

There is no objection to applying lime previous to plowing when a sufficient application is being made preceding the corn crop to correct the acidity of the surface soil. The land normally would be plowed before seeding the small grain crops, which would mix the lime thoroughly with the plowed soil and an additional benefit of the closer seedbed. When applied to fall plowed land, the application should be made after plowing. This

AIM HIGH FOR LECTURE COURSE

It Will Be Free, Ten Churches are Co-operating and President Wilson Has Been Invited to Open the Course.

Amidst campaigns innumerable the Christian Church of Kingston is about to launch one which is original and unique in that it is the first of its kind and free. It is very well but hard to believe that our ancestors were savages as it attested by the names of the days of our week it is just as well known that it is the Christian Church that has lifted us out of barbarism and is still lifting us out of barbarism. It is the duty of the Christian Church to conserve the institutions that it has created. To this end the Ministerial Association of the city through its committee has matured plans for a free lecture course which will aim to enlighten public opinion on all the great questions of the day that men and women may exercise their citizenship untrammelled by political prejudice and in the light of a Christian interpretation of duty. Already ten churches have joined the movement enough to launch the enterprise and it is believed all others will. It is understood that no church will be taxed more than $30 a year. The lectures will be three or four in number during the season and will be given in the auditorium of the high school.

The aim will be to secure the most representative lecturers in their particular field. President Woodrow Wilson has been invited to open the course on "The League of Nations." The chairman of the committee has received a letter from the executive secretary of the League of Nations of the invitation and stating that the matter was under consideration and would be submitted to the president. Mr. Hoover has been written to and there is at least a chance that we may look into the face of the man who has been telling us what and how much we may eat and who is acclaimed the savior of the world. Other men of like standing will be invited and it is hoped that the Christian Churches of our city may be successful in thus furnishing a free course of lectures from year to year that will be of the highest educational value if there is any public spirited citizen who feels prompted to make a personal contribution the gift will be appreciated by the committee and will be suitably acknowledged.

CALORIC

Heat All Your House Through One Register

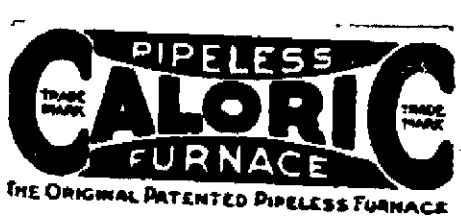

THE CALORIC SYSTEM of Heating is an entirely new application of the principles of conveying heat. Cold air falls—warm air rises. The Caloric's one register is built to take advantage of this simple scientific fact. The outer channel sucks cold air out of the house, carries it to the bottom of the furnace, where it is purified and passes over the radiation chamber up into the house by the inside warm air channels. The warm air is light and travels upward rapidly. Although no perceptible draft is noticed, the warm air seeks out every nook and corner in each room so that the temperature over the entire house is practically the same, the saving room upstairs being as cozy as the living room where the register is usually put.

We are enthusiastic about the Caloric. The remarkable results obtained by more than seventy-six thousand owners last year during the coldest weather proved our every claim. We know that it will make good and save 35 per cent on fuel bills.

WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME

By HALL CAINE
Scenario by Beulah Marie Dix
Directed by HUGH FORD
A Paramount-Artcraft Special

She Knew He Was False!

She knew that to him the marriage vow meant nothing. Yet she was his wife, bound the marriage vow meant nothing. Yet she knew that she had been sold to him to gratify her father's lust for power. Yet convention said she was his wife until death should set her free.

His thought her heart went out to another man who was good and brave and clean.

What did she do? Come and find out.

You'll say that this pulsing epic of a young wife's soul is the greatest woman drama you have ever viewed on the screen.

Hall Caine's sensational novel, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," stirred two continents. Here is the story, translated to living film by Hugh Ford, one of the master directors of America, and played by brilliant cast including Katharine MacDonald, Theodore Roberts, Milton Sills, Jack Holt and Fritz Brunette.

A picture that will startle you—thrill you—make you think. Don't miss it!

Two men, tramps whom he had given employment on his farm, are suspected as being the thieves. They worked faithfully two days and slept in a room in the barn and on the morning of Wednesday they were missing, also the motorcycle. They are thought to live in Philadelphia, as they gave addresses there. There was a tandem attachment to the motorcycle and the license number is 46482, motor No. Z. E. 5394, and had Firestone non-skid tires. The color of the car was olive drab. Sheriff Smith has sent out notices to forty different parties in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut giving a description of the motorcycle, and offering a reward of $25 for recovery of the machine, and a similar reward for conviction of the thieves. The men are described as follows: Each Irish descent, one 25 to 28 years of age, 5 feet, 5 inches tall, dark brown hair, brown eyes, high forehead, medium thin, clean face, had American flag and eagle tattooed on inside of right forearm, wore dark suit of clothes, dark cap and brown shoes. The other one is about 16 or 18 years of age, about 5 feet, 5 inches tall, slim build, brown hair, dark eyes, small and close-set brows, wears a crown, has small mouth, wore a dark suit, black shoes and yellow cap. Each had a grip, one being a russet color and the other being black.

RED CROSS WOMEN WILL PARADE

All women of the Red Cross, and especially all workers for the Red Cross, in Kingston and the various auxiliaries and branches in the county, please take note of the following:

All women of the Red Cross, who will join in the parade on Welcome Home Day, next Wednesday, October 1st, when those of the service men of Ulster county, who have not yet been officially honored, will be, are requested to meet at 10:45 o'clock, sharp, at the corner of McEntee street and Broadway. They will be headed by the Tenth Regiment Band of Albany.

Those arranging for the parade next Wednesday have most considerately so planned that the women will not have to march up the steep Rondout hill, which act should be shown to be fully appreciated by an added number of women participating in the parade. Furthermore the women will be provided with the best of hands possible to be secured, and this will mean much added comfort in marching. Remember, Red Cross women, next Wednesday, at 10:45 o'clock at the corner of McEntee street and Broadway.

Every Business Man as Well as the Buying Public Who Have the Future Welfare of Kingston at Heart Should Co-operate in the "Buy and Bank in Kingston Campaign"—Make Prosperity a Permanent Guest in Our City. Spend Your Money With Local Institutions. Buy in Kingston.

If you buy out of town and we buy out of town and all our neighbors buy out of town—that will become of our town? Ever think about it.

Buy and Bank in Kingston Campaign

Wake up! Look about you with a prospective eye and you will see wonderful opportunities right here in Kingston for profitable investment.

Co-operation is the secret of success in any and all movements. Appreciating this fact, the leading business and professional men of Kingston are going to unite in a wide-spread campaign which has for its purpose the creation and perpetuation of a more keen sense of loyalty to Kingston.

In these days of reconstruction, following the great industrial upheaval attendant upon the World War, communities are vying with each other in a strenuous effort to leap to the front. It therefore follows that the communities which make the greatest progress will be the communities whose citizens display the greatest co-operation.

Bear in mind the fact that a chain can be no stronger than its weakest link and with this thought in mind resolve that you are going to be one of the strongest links. Kingston expects and is entitled to that much from you.

One of the most effective ways in which you can help at this critical time is to preach and practice the good old doctrine of Buying and Banking in Kingston. Without this support Kingston's institutions can not maintain their rightful position in the world of industrial affairs; with it the future success of the community is assured, for it is upon the stability of these institutions that the prosperity of Kingston depends.

Every dollar spent out of town is so much fuel taken from the great business and industrial engine which furnishes the motive power for Kingston's prosperity and progress. See to it that your dollars are spent in Kingston and see to it that your neighbors are imbued with a similar determination. No out-of-town concern is deserving of your patronage when that patronage rightfully should be accorded the institutions which help support the community which supports you.

In this campaign the names of Kingston's leading business and professional people will figure prominently. They are the people who in this campaign, as in all other movements dedicated to the welfare of the community, are lending their support to a project whose sole purpose is the up-building and reconstruction along broader and more stable lines of a community richly endowed with the "Booster Spirit," and possessed of great possibilities along civic and industrial lines.

Are you treating your fellow-citizens as you would want them to treat you? Think! If you were a merchant would you care if your neighbor sent his money to the mail order houses.

Next Sunday, September 28 is Rally Day. It is earnestly hoped that there will be a full attendance at all the services. Sunday school at 9:30. Church service at 10:30 a. m. and Christian Endeavor at 7:30 p. m. The subject of the sermon will be, "Let us go into the house of the Lord. Our feet shall stand within thy gates, oh Jerusalem." In the evening, the pastor will preach at Union Center at 7:30. Shall we not all heartily respond to this invitation?

At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, ten dollars was raised towards securing a new carpet for the church, and a committee appointed to canvass the congregation in the near future to secure the balance needed. There is no doubt that the required amount will be easily raised as everybody is aware that the carpet is much needed.

Will all those who have "Missionary Boxes" kindly hand them in to the president of the society, at the church on Sunday, so that the report may be made out for the Classical Union which meets at Flatbush on October 9.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the morning service on Sunday, October 5th. The Classis of Ulster will hold its fall session at Grand Gorge on October 7. Rev. Van Oostenbrugge and an elder from this church will attend.

Mrs. H. A. Hendrickson, wife of a former pastor of the Reformed Church of Ellenville, is spending a couple days at the parsonage. The families of Rev. Hendrickson and Van Oostenbrugge have been close friends for many years.

Loyalty Well Rewarded.

A Parisian with a sense of humor bequeathed 300 francs to each relative who abstained from attending his funeral. One poor relative insisted on following the deceased to the grave; and her loyalty was rewarded, for by a codicil to his will the deceased left the residue of his large fortune to those relatives who were prepared to sacrifice the 300 francs.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.
A tree whose hungry mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast.
A tree that looks at God all day
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;
A tree that may in summer wear
A nest of robins in her hair;
Upon whose blossoms song-sparrows sit,
Who more intimately lives with rain.
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.
—Joyce Kilmer.

FEEDING THE SICK AND CONVALESCENT

Few families are so fortunate as to escape illness during some time of their history. Good feeding is so important a factor in maintaining health, but in spite of good food a sudden chill or strain of overwork or worry will overwhelm even a strong and healthy body.

Since all food must be reduced to fluid form before it can be digested and assimilated, that seems to be the best form to serve it to those who are ill. This diet includes broths and clear soups of various kinds, beef juice and beef tea, cereals, gruels, milk plain or modified to make it more digestible, nutritious or more agreeable to the patient, raw eggs in combination with water, milk, fruit juices or cocoa and cream soups of various kinds.

Broths, clear soups and beef tea have little nourishment, but stimulate the appetite, are refreshing when cold or soothing when hot; they also stimulate the flow of gastric juice. By adding eggs, milk or the thickening of cereal flour like barley or rice, they may be quite nutritive.

Cereal gruels are neither stimulating nor irritating and are most useful when the appetite is poor and digestion weak, as they are quickly digested and absorbed.

Like broths, gruels may be enriched by eggs, cream and milk, for one could not drink enough to keep up the body energy without the addition of some more nutritive food.

Milk is one of the most valuable foods for sick people and fortunately most patients like it. It has been called the perfect food. Its value may be increased by changing its flavor, adding yeast to it making a drink called bouillabaisse and by adding junket or rennet to partly digest it making it more palatable and adding variety.

EVERY NAME STARTS WELL

Entire District Represented at Conference Held in St. John's Church Thursday—Eloquent Addresses Delivered.

The attendance at the afternoon session of the every name campaign conference held at St. John's parish house on Thursday, was most gratifying in that every parish and mission in the district was represented, there being either rectors or lay delegates from Bloomingville, Ellenville, High Falls, Kingston—three churches—New Paltz, Ohioville, West Camp, Rosendale, Saugerties, Stone Ridge and Rifton.

The afternoon speakers were Bishop Colmore of Porto Rico and the Rev. Dr. Milton of Wilmington, North Carolina, with the Rev. John Brian McCormick, summing up the whole day's proceedings.

Perhaps nothing was said throughout the day that so concisely sums up the object of this nation-wide every name campaign, as the following:

"It is a movement in and of the whole church to mobilize the whole resources of the church in the doing of the whole work of the church in the whole world."

The theme of Bishop Colmore's address was "The World's Need and the Church's Opportunity." The bishop proved himself both a virile speaker and an enthusiastic one. He showed the world's need today of character building, Christianizing and educational, to be found not only in what are usually called the domestic and foreign mission fields, but right at home in every parish. This nation-wide campaign is not spread out so thin that there is nothing to it. It will, through its survey and its systematized financing of the entire church enterprise, try to meet all of the needs, which the careful survey has brought to light. As far as the financial end is concerned, it has been estimated on the basis of the survey, that it will require $40,000,000 to meet all of the needs of every parish, diocese and field mission at home and abroad for the work for the next three years.

Bishop Colmore made it exceedingly plain that the great and growing east is being influenced by American and American ideals and actions whether we want it to be so or not. And character building will be the one thing that will make our influence safe for the future of the world. The people of America must learn to live the life of Christ if the future of the world is to be safe. So the main object of the campaign is to bring the sense of this responsibility to every individual in this nation.

Speaking from his own experience in Porto Rico, the meeting ground of North and South America, the bishop said that whether we would or not, Latin America is counting the United States as a big brother. This may not be our choice but apparently it is God's plan and we may not change it any more than we can change the Monroe doctrine.

In Porto Rico, for instance, the people are not satisfied with having been made citizens of the United States. They want to be made a state of the United States. And this state of mind has been brought about in twenty years by the influence, not only of our government but of the churches from the United States.

The bishop gave the following answers to the question, "Why the every name campaign?"

It enlists every member of the church, whether active or impassive, now.

It compels the personal consideration of duty.

Such a campaign, with its conferences and its visiting committees supplements public instruction.

It increases the number of givers toward the cause of Christ and increases the total of all of the offerings.

It develops new workers.

It reclaims lapsed members and promotes good fellowship.

Bishop Colmore then explained how all this was to be brought about. By an educational campaign.

By exhibitions of parish statistics, no matter how unpleasant to face before, for the after will be proportionately gratifying.

By the adopting of a campaign budget.

By the appointing of campaign committees for enlisting the entire membership of the church.

By reporting progress frequently and by completing the canvass promptly.

Bishop Colmore said that people had learned during the war, the heart-deep satisfaction of real sacrifice, and it should not be difficult right now, so immediately after the war, when the country's need was so grave and so great, to get them to sacrifice for the sake of the Kingdom of God. Already big business men are giving of their time, their effort and their money to the work; women are giving of their time and effort, and with every man, woman and child, giving all they can of co-operation toward the campaign, we should soon see in great measure a fulfilling of the love of the God of Love.

Dr. Milton who so, enthused his hearers in the morning, spoke for a short time again in the afternoon, his theme being "The Call of the Country and the Church's Responsibility." The call of the country today is for a right spirit to interpret the signs of the times, and help in our mighty reconstruction problems. The church must meet the program of the country with a program of the church which shall be commensurate.

Dr. Milton was emphatic in stating his belief that the church has the stuff in her to measure up to this demand. That in this campaign her members, the nation over, will give a real meaning to the Cross of Christ, such as we knew nothing of before the war.

Dr. Milton closed with three pertinent paragraphs and quotations from the scriptures.

"The light that shines farthest shines brightest at home."

"The resources of God are promised only to those who undertake the program of God."

"I will place no value on anything I have or may possess, except in relation to the Kingdom of God." (David Livingston.)

While having the most uninteresting part of the program to present, the outlining of the details of the coming campaign, the Rev. Mr. McCormick was one of the most interesting men at the conference. He is an unusually young man, but his ability has evidently been recognized in that he has been put as director of the campaign for New York state.

He told his hearers that the survey of the parishes and missions had been completed, after the most careful study and consideration. Having been completed it was held for the signature of the bishop. One of the very first acts, therefore of the new bishop, Bishop Burch had made a painstaking study of the survey, with some necessary changes and recommendations and the signing of the same.

Then Mr. McCormick put up the further work of the Nation-Wide Every Name Campaign in New York to the teams and workers for this campaign will be operated similarly to the great war campaigns.

The speaker was direct, explicit, concise, yet most kindly and considerate, and every representative present should have left St. John's parish house completely informed as to his or her part in the coming great campaign.

Whither We Are Flying.

The point in space toward which the sun with its planets is voyaging at the rate of a million miles a day now lies directly overhead early in the evening. The exact location of this point has not been finally determined, but it lies somewhere in the neighborhood of the brilliant star Vega. Do you feel that you are shooting upward, head first, about 25 times as fast as a cannonball?

NOT SAFE YET. What does the sign on the house over there say? It says just married. We'll call about a year from now, after the couple's wife.

Ups and Downs. Tourist—"Anything remarkable about this hill, driver?" Driver—"There's nothing peculiar about the hill itself, but there's a queer story connected with it. A young lady and gentleman went for a walk up here; they ascended higher and higher and never came back." Tourist—"Dear, dear you! What, then, became of the unhappy pair?" Driver—"It is supposed that they went down on the other side, hill."

Reading for the Blind. Galt, the Scotchman, vastly improved the system of books for the blind, using a modified Roman letter, and confining himself to lower case to preference to capitals. The Detroit News recalls. In 1834 Galt issued the gospel of St. John, the first book of the Bible ever printed for the blind. The work was taken up in America by Doctor Howe, the husband of Julia Ward Howe, then in charge of the Perkins Institute in Boston, who printed the entire New Testament in 1838. Doctor Howe issued the entire Bible in raised characters in 1847, and a similar work was issued in Glasgow a few years later. The first magazine for the blind was established in England in 1835 by the Rev. W. Taylor, who devoted 40 years of his life to the education of the sightless. A circulating library for the blind was founded in 1832 at the Perkins Institute in Boston, and libraries of this kind have since been established in nearly all large cities.

First Overhead Trolley. The first practical overhead trolley line was built in Kansas City in 1894, in which double overhead conductors were used with a trolley wheel riding on top of the wire. In 1895 a third rail line was constructed in Baltimore and the Van de Pyle system was installed in Toronto, Canada, and the next year in Scotland, etc. Prior to this time experimental systems had been in use in Chicago, New York and Boston.

NEWS NOTES FOR THE BOY SCOUTS

Tonight is the night of inspection when all scouts are to report to Executive Merrill at 6:30 in Forsyth Park. There you are to be inspected by the executive, scout commissioner, as well as other scout officials. After the inspection a short drill will be held in preparation for the welcome home parade on October 1.

Now, although the order for inspection says that all scouts are to be in uniform, we understand that a good many scouts have not yet procured uniforms. Those who have not uniforms, however, are to report just the same with the others. The scouts who are to be inspected are, if in uniform, supposed to have their proper chevrons or badges or service stripes in the proper places. Their uniforms are to be clean and with every button buttoned, and shoes polished. Hands and faces are also to be clean while the hanger nails will be inspected too.

The scouts who are not in uniform are to have their badge on left lapel of coat and the buttons are to be buttoned. They will be inspected as the scouts in uniform—their hands, face, shoes and finger nails. Do not forget the penalty for absence, for we want and must have every fellow who calls himself a scout at this inspection and drill. The scouts from all over Ulster county will be here October 1. We must make a good showing. That is the way to do it. So long. See you 6:30, after supper.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Point Comfort Damage Slight.

The steam river freight boat Postmaster General on her trip down last night took 2,000 barrels of apples from Catskill and Cheviot, about equal amounts from each place. The boat Point Comfort, which rumor has stated to be badly damaged, one report being that she had broken in two, it appears is comparatively uninjured. The Merritt-Chapman Wrecking Company, which has the contract for raising the boat, reports that except for injury to the bow, the Point Comfort is practically undamaged.

Be Boss of Your Heater

You control a Boynton Square Pot Boiler or Furnace. You needn't coax it, for Square Pots are never balky.

A few minutes in morning and again at night does the trick, unless the cold is unusually severe. Then give one extra stoking.

The square fireplace—a patented feature—is built like a locomotive firebox. Your fire is all live coal, without ash or clinker. Gratebars operate with an even motion under the whole firebox.

Temperature is steady, neither too low nor unbearably hot. Anyone who needs more heat quickly, you have a clean bed of coals and perfect draft.
